

Hi guys!

Happy Wedding!

For those who don't know me, my name is J. Money and I'm [Groom's] Best Man, and I'm here to tell you all about how intelligent, charming, handsome, and nice [Groom] is.

In fact, he's so nice he even wrote this speech for me!

Thanks bud!

Well alright, I wrote this, but unlike [Groom] who actually does write speeches for a living, I do not. However [Groom] assured me that this didn't have to be "too long or fancy," so I'm taking him up on it and pretty much making this the opposite of fancy.

Do y'all remember Mad Libs?

Where you get your friends to give you a bunch of adjectives and nouns and verbs, and then you fill in the blanks of a soon to be entertaining story? Well, [Groom] and I did a lot of those growing up, so I thought - what better (and family friendly) way to go down memory lane than to play one of these again?

And to make sure it was done right, I enlisted the help of my 4 and 6 year old boys ;)

So here we go, bud - A Wedding Day Mad Lib for you!

Hello! My name is Sponge Bob SquarePants, and I've known today's couple for a million years. I doggie paddled all the way from Dinosaur World to get here, and I am beyond stinky that [name of groom] & [name of bride] are tying the knot! There has never been a more naked couple than those two, and I hope they have 13 slimy babies together. My Best Advice? Don't forget to kick the green burritos before going to bed every night! And [name of groom], always tickle [name of bride]'s belly button after a long fight. You may be scared, but true soccer balls last forever. Now ladies and hedgehogs, please raise your light sabers for the slippery couple, and may they have a lifetime of health, happiness, and everlasting ninja turtles!

In all seriousness though - I'm beyond happy for the two of you, and I'm so glad you guys found each other :) You're one of the sweetest people I've ever met [Bride], and I knew you'd fit in with our group the second you decided to surprise [Groom] that he was having a baby with a good ol' fashion game of charades!

And [Groom] - I've never seen you so happy or excited before! You went all in when you realized [Bride] was the one, and not only did you propose right away, but you went and got yourself a better job, found a new and bigger house for you guys, and then even went as far to get her pregnant - all within the span of 6 months!

And I can tell just how much you care for her because you never stopped talking about it the entire bachelor party :)

- You told all 10 of us guys how much you were in love with her
- You told all the bartenders we came across how much you loved her
- You told random people on the street how happy you were getting married
- And even though you said it was a butt dial, you even called [Bride]'s MOM for 6 minutes, probably to tell HER how much you were in love with [Bride] too!
- And did y'all get the 100 emails leading up to today making sure we didn't miss the big celebration? ;)

It's safe to say you've finally found your PERSON, [Groom], and I'm beyond excited for you guys.

So here's to a happy 37th birthday - a happy new job - a happy new house - a happy new baby - and above all, a happy new lifetime together.

Congratulations guys!